Denplan Launch Practice Manager Forums

Building on its long history of providing relevant, informative and fun training events for the whole practice team, Denplan has launched a series of Practice Manager Forums, to take place around the country.

The new Practice Manager Forums are designed to provide an opportunity for practice managers up and down the UK to take a day out and concentrate on their own professional growth and development. The day's programme includes topics such as:

- Appraisals and personal development plans: how to make these work for you and your team
- HR issues: complex HR procedures including the hiring or firing of staff, maternity leave and staff sickness
- Goal mapping: how to put your ideas into practice and maximise opportunities
- Updates on regulations such as HTM 01-05, sharps management, Direct Access and new GDC standards
- That's the 'World of Denplan' for you: a forum designed to update you on all things Denplan

Simon Eve, Denplan's Events Manager, says: "The role of the practice manager has grown enormously over the last few years, with many now taking responsibility for areas such as PR, marketing, human resources and regulatory compliance. To give your best and to get the best from your team, it's sometimes necessary to take a step back and consider whether you could benefit from additional training, share the experiences of others in similar roles, or be inspired by those who have had particular success in their practice. We're incredibly proud of our Practice Manager Forums as they allow practice managers to do just that, while networking with their peers and hopefully having a fun and informative day as well."

Denplan's Practice Manager Forums are running on the following dates in an area near you:

- 25th September, Macdonald Houstoun House, West Lothian
- 1st October, Holiday Inn Reading
- 9th October, Redworth Hall, Darlington
- 6th November, Hilton Templepatrick, Belfast
- 12th November, Cambridge Belfry, Cambridge
- 19th November, Hilton Newport, Newport
- 26th November, Welcombe Hotel, Stratford
- 4th December, Park Royal, Warrington
